

February 28, 2018 1:00pm

A Day for Raiders

Arleen, Linda and Patty

The temperature briefly reached 59, and the wind was SW at 15 miles an hour. We planted grass seed on the edge of the iron armor erosion control mat and around the curve, and covered it with sheets of straw. We will complete the other end on Saturday March 3, our first official "work day"

It is a little different to see so much shades of brown in the wetland. Even the grass here is 1/2 brown.

We are standing next to the channel leading from our lake into Wawasee. The current is clearly visible as the water flows through the channel.

New colony in the wetland.

Juncus rush